

DULCIBEL

Dulcibel

by Henry Peterson (1818 - 1891)

Dulcibel is a pretty and kind-hearted young woman, charged with witchcraft during the infamous Salem Witch trials. During this time there is a group of "afflicted girls" who accuse Dulcibel and many others of witchcraft, and during their trials show "undoubtable" proof that these people really are witches. Will Master Raymond, Dulcibel's lover, be able to secure Dulcibel's release from jail? Or will Dulcibel's fate be the gallows like so many other accused witches of her time?

Total running time: 8:36:20

Read by Elaine Webb

Cover design by Kathryn Delaney
Cover illustration from the book

Henry Peterson

Henry Peterson

DULCIBEL